

Community Caregivers Helps Its Drivers with Gas Expenses

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Many volunteer organizations are feeling the squeeze from higher gas prices. Community Caregivers is doing something about it by providing gasoline incentives to their active volunteer drivers.

Diane Cameron, Executive Director, has announced that gas cards in amounts ranging from $25 to $50 are being awarded monthly for driving clients the most miles or the most hours. Some awards are based on a drawing.

The gas card program is supported by Senior Whole Health, EMCO Construction and the WellPoint Foundation

“Our drivers have been extraordinarily generous in donating their time and assuming the expense of transportation,” Cameron said. “No driver has quit because of gas prices. They are committed and know that services are needed more than ever. This is one way we can show our appreciation.”
